

Frank Oswalt, III

General Counsel, Imperial Irrigation District

Frank Oswalt, III, serves as general counsel for Imperial Irrigation District where, under the direction of the Board of Directors and general manager, he plans, organizes, coordinates and controls the operations, activities and functions of IID's Legal Department.

Mr. Oswalt's duties include developing and administering a comprehensive legal services program for the district. He provides legal advice, professional legal services and coordinates district legal matters for the board and district management staff and oversees the selection and work of outside attorneys.

He is a licensed attorney in California, holding a bachelor's degree from the University of California, Santa Barbara, and a Juris Doctor in law, having graduated magna cum laude from the University of San Diego School of Law.

Practicing law continuously in the Imperial Valley since his admission to the state bar, Mr. Oswalt was formerly a partner of Horton, Knox, Carter and Foote who provided a full range of legal services to the Imperial Irrigation District.

Since 2006, Mr. Oswalt has practiced law through Oswalt & Associates, representing local public agencies in the Imperial Valley in a variety of roles, including labor relations, human resources, personal and property injury defense and general governmental matters.

He has presented training on the Brown Act, ethics and sexual harassment to Imperial Valley governmental and business groups.
